

Diary 317

Before the Cell – The night that changed everything

I don't know exactly why I'm writing this.
Perhaps to remember. Maybe so as not to go crazy.

But if anyone ever reads these pages... You need to know how it all started.

It was supposed to be just a normal night.

Cynna had insisted a lot that I go to that party. I didn't even want to go, to be honest. I wasn't in the mood, but she said I needed to get out, distract my mind.

"It's going to be good for you," she said.
I should have listened less.

I left home late.

The city was alive, as always. Lights, cars, people coming and going. Nothing out of the ordinary. I was alone, with my hands in my pockets, walking unhurriedly.

It was just another night. Just one more way. Just another wrong choice.

To get there faster, I decided to cut through a side street.

I had been there before, but that night... was different.

Darker, quieter, and then I heard, a dry noise.

One discussion, quick steps. And then... a scream.

I should have left, I should have pretended I didn't hear anything. But I didn't go.

When I turned the corner, I saw everything happening too fast.

Two men, one victim on the ground, sudden movement, fighting.

And something metallic glowing for a second, I didn't think, I ran towards them.

"Hey! Stop it!"

That's all I said, nothing heroic, nothing intelligent. Only impulse.

The two fled, simple as that, they left me there. With him.

The victim was on the ground, breathing weakly.

Blood, a lot of blood.

I knelt down.

I tried to help.

I pressed the wound as I saw it once on television.

"Stay with me... stay with me..."

But he did not answer.

His eyes... were already empty.

And it was at that moment...

that it's all over.

Siren. Lights. Steps running. Screams.

"Get away!"

Hands pulling me.

I still had blood on my hands.

"I didn't do anything!"

"I was trying to help!"

No one listened.

Or they pretended not to hear.

I panicked.

I don't know how to explain it.

But at that moment, everything seemed wrong.

Everything seemed to point to me.

And then I did the worst thing possible.

I ran.

I didn't go far, you never go.

I was knocked to the ground, handcuffed, immobilized. Like a criminal, like a murderer.

And there...

lying on the cold asphalt... with his face against the ground...
I realized that something had changed.

It was no longer a normal night.
It was no longer a small choice.

It was the beginning of the end.

If I knew...
I would have kept walking.
I would have ignored the scream.
I would have chosen another street.

But I didn't choose it.

And now... I'm here. Writing this...
In a place where no one believes me.

And maybe...
I don't even start to believe anymore.

Diary 317

Transition – From error to condemnation

Date: March 14, 2025

Time: 11:48 pm

Location: Side street – Shinjuku District, Norway

I was still on the ground when they put the handcuffs on.

Cold on metal. Pressure on the wrists.

– "Be quiet!"

I couldn't resist.

It was no longer useful.

The victim's body was a few meters from me. Covered. Immovable.

And I... covered in blood.

March 15, 2025 - 01:20

Location: Norwegian Metropolitan Police Station – Interrogation Room 3

White light. Cold table. Uncomfortable chair.

Two men in front of me.

– Your name.

– Fox...

– Full name.

Silence.

I replied. But it seemed that it didn't matter.
They had already decided.

– You were there.

– Yes, but I...

– The victim died.

– I tried to help!

– And he fled.

It always turned away. Always.

01:40

– Why did you run?

I didn't know how to answer.
Medo? Instinct? Wrong?

– I panicked...

They exchanged glances, not of doubt. Confirmation.

05:40 - Provisional cell - Police Station

First night. Without sleep, without understanding.

Just a question repeating in my head:

"How did it turn into this?"

March 18, 2025 - 10:15

Location: Visiting room – Police Station

Cynna showed up.

Red eyes. Hands shaking.

She held my hands through the glass.

– I know you didn't do that.

He was the only person who said that. The only one.

– It'll be okay, she said.

But her voice didn't seem to believe it.

March 26, 2025- 09:30

Location: District Court of Norway - Room 2

All too fast.

Lawyer speaking. Prosecutor accusing. Witnesses I have never seen.

And proof...

that I didn't know how to explain.

- The defendant was found at the scene.
- He tried to run away.
- No consistent alibi.

Every sentence was a nail.

I tried to speak.

- I didn't do that.

But it seemed... too small, too weak.

11:47

- Guilty.

One word. And it was all over.

April 01, 2025 - 06:10

Location: Prison Transport

Handcuffed again.

This time, without internal resistance.

I just looked out the window. The city passing by, as if I wasn't already part of it.

07:25

Location: Entrance - Halden Maximum Security Prison

High gates, Concrete, Heavy air.

The kind of place that won't forget you.

- Come down.

The guard's voice was dry.

I went downstairs. And I felt it, on my skin, in my breath, in my silence.

I didn't belong there.
But no one there belonged anywhere.

08:10

Location: Sorting area

Magazine. Pushes. Short orders.

- Take off your shirt.
- Turn.
- Come on.

No name, no identity, just one more.

It was there that I saw him for the first time.

Tonny.

Cold look, still, observing.

He didn't say anything.

But I had already decided something about myself. I felt it.

09:05

Location: Corridor of the cells

Iron doors.

Noise of echoing footsteps, distant screams, someone laughing loudly, another crying.

- "Cell 317."

The voice came after me.

Cell 317

The door opened.

And inside...

Someone was already sitting, quiet and looking at me.

Kevin.

He didn't say anything. He didn't ask anything, he just analyzed me.

Like I was trying to figure out how long I would last.

The door closed, the sound echoed.

Heavy, final.

At that moment... I get it.

This was not a phase.

It was not a temporary mistake.

It was my new world.

April 05, 2025 - 14:30

Location: Visiting room – Prison

Cynna returned.

More haggard, quieter.

She put something on the table. A notebook.

– For you to write... so as not to lose my head.

I held on tight.

As if it were more than paper.

Maybe it was.

22:10

Location: This 317

First night with the notebook.

Kevin was already lying down. Silent.
But awake. I knew it.

I opened the notebook.
I looked at the blank page.
I took a deep breath.

And I wrote:

"Day 1."

"I don't belong here."

"And I'm going to get out of here."

Today...

I'm not so sure.